Introduction to the URGI/IRGI Functions

Section 1

Introduction

You will be able to reappoint and give general salary increases to FT1 employees using the FT1 Reappointment and General Salary Increase function, URGI. This function will go against a file that will be created in late May (after May monthly payroll is calculated). This file will contain all FT1 employees whose appointment end date is June 30 or thereafter.

→ If the appointment end date is prior to June 30, you will need to use a Human Resource Change Form.

→ If an individual’s end date is June 30 or thereafter, you should use URGI.

→ There will be some situations where you will not be able to use URGI. If you cannot use this function you will receive a pop-up window telling you that you must use a Human Resource Change form and the reason. Following are some of the reasons you will still need to use the forms (example: RAPP, ARCA, AEXT, NEXT):

1. An HR86 appointment’s 3 year limitation will expire before June 30 of the new fiscal year. You will be able to reappoint the individual up to the date of the limitation as long as it meets the FT1 editing (6 months or more). If it will be less than 6 months you will need to use the appropriate Human Resource Change form.

2. An individual’s Employment Authorization will expire before June 30 of the new fiscal year. You will be able to reappoint the individual up to the expiration date as long as it is for 6 months or more. If the individual’s Employment Authorization has been renewed and OHR has been notified, you will be able to use URGI once OHR updates the database with the new Employment Authorization expiration date. If you cannot reappoint the individual using URGI, you will receive a pop-up window telling you that you must use a Human Resource Change form.

3. If an individual’s appointment end date is not June 30 but is before August 1 you should use the Human Resource Change form to reappoint the individual and give them a general salary increase if they are due one.

4. If the field, appointment begin date, is not primed with July 1 of the new fiscal year, you will not be able to change this field. You may only apply a salary increase at this time.

You will be able to reappoint those employees whose appointment end date is June 30. These individuals will have their dates primed as follows:

URGI-1
Introduction

• Appointment begin date will be set to July 1 current year.

• Appointment end date will be set to June 30 new year. You will be able to change the appointment end date as long as it meets the criteria for a FT1 employee.

You will be required to enter the FT1 confirmation date for non-academic (STFF) employees.

If the employee is academic or an academic administrator, you will be required to enter the Memorandum of Personal Service (MPS) date and you may change the rank.

For those individuals you are reappointing and giving a general salary increase, you will choose the option “YES, reappoint” on the re-appointment pop-up window and then you will be required to enter an increase amount.

For those individuals you are reappointing but not receiving a general salary increase, you will be required to provide a reason code for why they are not receiving an increase.

For those individuals whose appointments are not expiring and are receiving a general salary increase, you will be required to enter an increase amount.

For those individuals whose appointments are not expiring and not receiving a general salary increase, you will be required to provide a reason code for why they are not receiving an increase.

If the individual’s appointment expires June 30 and you do not want to reappoint them, you will chose the option “NO, do not reappoint” on the re-appointment pop-up window.

This procedure will need to be coordinated between the Human Resource Representative and the Financial Officer to ensure that ALL individuals have been reappointed, given a general salary increase or identified as not being reappointed or not receiving a general salary increase.

The person doing URGI is required to take action on every individual listed even if they don’t get an increase or are not being re-appointed.

There are no approval paths involved. This is why it is critical that an individual is responsible for making sure everything has been entered. Listings will be provided to check information and for the areas to sign-off on the salary information, etc.

Security to the function will be given to the Human Resource Representative and the Financial Officer. If you would like other individuals to have access to the URGI function to update the information and/or IRGI to inquire against the information), you will need to request this through the Security Office, AIS, Shields Building.

URGI-2
Introduction

The update/inquiry functions will consist of four main screens:
